Special Dispatch to The Star. PHILADELPHIA, April 26.— Defeat marked the initial appearance of the Nationals in Philadelphia today. In a game which was St. Louis. most interesting and well played the men of Griffith came out on the short end of a 3-to-2 score. For a time it seemed that luck would still favor the Nationals and that they would win the day by a small margin, but a rally by a small margin, but a rally still favor the Nationals and that they would win the day by a small margin, but a rally single margin in the state of the section of the state of the section of the secti in the eighth, in which Eddie Fromme, 5: by Perritt, 4. Collins, in fact, was the one factor who would not be denied. It was his double in the fourth which paved the way for the tying run and his triple in the eighth gave his team the two runs it needed to decide the day.

No team could have asked for more opportunities to score runs than the Nationals had today. In Both Teams Hit Safely Five Times, almost every inning they had men on bases, but barring two occasions nothing happened which would allow the base runners to reach the coveted goal. A base hit at any one of six times would have put the game on ice, but under such conditions a tall young with the aid of two errors by their opman by the rather unusual name of Brown appeared to be the master of the situation, and so it was Mechanical College of North Carolina HAS NO SUCH INTENTIONS that but twice did the Nationals here this afternoon. Hughes scratched in another, and then Moeller made a rather peculiar double through Bayer, scoring McBride, but with second and third occupied and one out no more runs came home. Milan failed when he hit to Barry, and that young man threw home in time to nail Hughes, and then Laporte sent out a fly to Daley, which exded he round. There was somewhat of a chance in the third, when Mornothing came of it. Collins was responsible for the tying of the score in the fourth. He started matters by hitting a double to right, and, of course, scored when Baker bounced a hot one off Gandil's elbow. But McInnis' grounder to McBride beat him to first, and when Baker got the idea that he was a speed marvel and tried to reach third on the play Gandil threw him out

The sixth found the Nationals threatening again, but a cog slipped! Morgan had allowed the third strike to be called on him and then Ainsmith walked. He stole second, too, and then Shanks was given a pass. Ainsmith next stole third and the throw there was wide, passing Baker, and Ainsmith started for home. He got there all right, but in trying to avoid Lapp he missed the plate and Lapp had only to touch him while trying to scram-ble back to get the decision. At this stage, of course. ## ous Boston report that Walter Johnson, NATIONALS OUTPLAYED RIVALS EXCEPT IN GETTING NEEDED HIT

BY J. ED GRILLO.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Luck seems never to break just right for the Nationals when they meet the Mackmen. Last year a Boston ...... 8 New York .... 5 large majority of the grueling battles that this pair had went to the wrong side of the Griffith ledger principally because the breaks of the game were always against him, and that was the reason for toof casually, that she often came to the day's defeat, too. Anything that resembled a base hit would have won todays' game in a canter, but that hit was absent, though Brown, who was working, did not look as if he had a license to stop any since last fall, and had almost forgotten team. On the other hand, the locals got their hits when they counted her name, when some one shoved the and won the struggle by a one-run margain.

From an unbiased standpoint it would have to be admitted that St. Louis .... 6 | Cincinnati .... 5 the Nationals outplayed their rivals in everything but getting a hit when it was needed. They continued to run bases today as they have against the other teams they have met this spring, while their! field work was absolutely clean and errorless. It was a struggle between two apparently well matched teams, in which the one which in love and hope I never will be. It is got the breaks of fortune was sure to win, and these breaks were not cleveland at Detroit. St. Louis at Chicago.

Such base ball as the Nationals played today is not going to meet with defeat very often. A continuance of such a game is sure to give them some victories here. Monday Walter Johnson will pitch, and if his team can score for him the result need not be considered in doubt.

Eddie Ainsmith made a play today for which he is in disfavor Johnson thinks that the report was with local fans, but it was absolutely legitimate, at that, and he deserves a lot of credit for taking the chance. When, with the bases Outbats and Outfields Trinity and full in the seventh and but one out, Danny Murphy sent a long fly to center, which Milan caught, there did not appear to be a chance for any human arm to get the ball home in time to prevent McInnis, who was on third, from scoring. Score: deceived McInnis, who slowed up until too late. Then he started to back, but as Ainsmith had him blocked it was possible for him to reach and get the ball and retire the runner, completing a double play and helping Hughes out of a deep hole. Ainsmith was hoofed and jeered for having made the play.
